EMBRACING CHANGE

A New Chapter for Our Business Association

As the curtain falls on another Annual General Meeting (AGM) season, our organisation welcomes a new era under the capable leadership of our recently appointed Chairman - Michael Powell.

The culmination of our reporting, governance, and goal-achievement obligations have reinforced the solid foundation upon which our committee now stands. We extend our gratitude to Chairman Michael Powell for his commitment and vision.

In the spirit of rejuvenation, it is crucial to acknowledge the importance of a fresh leadership perspective within any governing body. As custodians of our business community's interests, we are dedicated to maintaining an organisation that remains transparent, relevant, and accountable.

As we step into the promising outlook for 2024, our Business Association is optimistic toward the strides we are making in crucial projects, particularly with our CCTV enterprise. Stay tuned for reports from our new Chair as he guides us through this developing initiative, together with our other projects. You may notice that our giant Christmas Tree has again been placed on Lincoln Road.

Unveiling the Power of Advocacy:

Amidst the winds of change sweeping through our Business Improvement District (BID), it's crucial to shed light on a term of paramount importance to our precinct – Advocacy! But what exactly is advocacy, and why should it matter to you?

In the context of our progressive Business Association, advocacy is the ardent support of causes that echo with the interests and well-being of our precinct. It goes beyond mere rhetoric; it involves strong support for our membership, ensuring their concerns are heard, while actively collaborating with stakeholders to achieve favourable conclusions. Advocacy, therefore, is the heartbeat of our member-led organisation.

Recognising that not everyone may find comfort in the subtleties of process and diplomacy, it's essential to understand that the by-products of such efforts extend far beyond mere annoyance. For some, the dividends may show as increased revenue, or desired result - a tangible outcome of navigating a sometimes complex landscape.

Enter the CPHBA, standing ready to be your ally in progress! Our mission is clear: CPHBA is here to ASSIST!

Why should you care about advocacy? It's our collective voice; which is what the Assn. stands for...

"One Voice For The West"

Whether advocating for fair business practices, lobbying regional/ national government, or contributing to member development, we will continue pushing for positive outcomes.

Allow these thoughts to permeate as we navigate through the election results.

UHY HAINES NORTON

Prestigious Award for Director Emma Simpson

UHY Haines Norton (Auckland) Ltd is delighted to announce that Director Emma Simpson CA, ATT UK (Fellow), is the recipient of the prestigious 2023 UHY Leadership Forum Award.

UHY is currently ranked the 20th largest international accounting, audit, tax and consultancy network. The UHY Forum is a key event in the network's professional development calendar, bringing together global professionals for an international business and mentoring programme built around the development of leadership and client relationship skills.

Every fourth year, the UHY Forum is opened up to its 'alumni' and becomes the UHY Leadership Forum, with previous delegates attending alongside UHY's promising emerging leaders to create an even more dynamic leadership environment. This year over 40 delegates attended the forum, from member firms in 25 countries. "I really enjoyed being part of such a great event and meeting like-minded people," says Emma. "And I got to appreciate the truly global reach of UHY."

Emma Simpson was chosen by the Forum leaders as the overall Forum winner. "I enjoy connecting with people, which most likely helped me to win the award," she explains. "I think the experience I've gained running my own practice, and now being part of the bigger UHY team, helped me to contribute to the discussions in a meaningful way." Emma is now invited to UHY's annual conference in Buenos Aires, Argentina, to network with firms from around the world and present her views and insights.

Emma merged her successful accounting practice with UHY Haines Norton (Auckland) Ltd earlier this year, feeling that the timing was right for her clients to benefit from the expanded range of services UHY provides. "The last few years have seen a huge increase in the amount and complexity of compliance forced onto businesses – especially small- to medium-sized businesses," she explains. "The decision to join UHY was not only the right one for my clients, but also me personally."

WEST AUCKLAND BUSINESS

WEST COAST BEACHES ARE OPEN AND READY FOR YOU!
Safety tips from Piha Surf Life Saving Club.

Piha SLSC believe engaging and giving back through the act of saving lives is the most honourable and impactful way to contribute to a community. Last season Piha SLSC conducted 33 rescues, four major searches, and contributed 6,181 patrolling hours on their beach.

Zero drownings between the flags

As we head into Summer, please use NZ lifeguards, always distinct in their 'red and yellows' as a resource when you get to the beach. PSLS lifeguards work closely with the public to help educate them to avoid dangers. Their key message is to "swim between the flags" because there has NEVER been a drowning on a NZ beach between the flags.

Safest time to swim

At weekends through the summer, Piha volunteer guards are on patrol from 10am to 6pm. That is the safest time to enjoy being in the water, please don't go in if they are not on patrol.

"We love our beach, and we want you too also! If you come out for sunset, enjoy it from the dunes, or from our club balcony, not from the water" says the club

Tips this Summer - if in doubt, stay out!

Here are some simple actions to keep yourself and your family safe at the beach.

- 1. On arrival at the beach read the safety messages at the patrol deck or have a chat to a lifeguard.
 - They are friendly and like to chat!
- 2. Swim between the flags, and remember the flags are not static, the guards will move them through the day.

- Rips, currents and holes are constantly monitored, and the flags moved accordingly
- Listen to the guards when they ask you to move over, they are doing it to keep you safe.

- 3. If swimming out past the break choose a point on the beach to be your marker,
 - to see if you are being dragged one way or another.

- 4. Trust your own judgement.
 - Don't succumb to peer pressure and go out deeper than you are comfortable with.

- 5. Raise your hand if you are in trouble. Remember the three R's
 - Raise your hand, Relax and Ride the rip.

- 6. Don't overestimate your ability
 - or your children's ability to cope with water conditions. If in doubt, stay out!

Identifying a Rip

Rips are strong currents of water that can carry you away from the shore. They often stop out where the waves stop breaking. Waves can be bigger and stronger than they look from the shore, and rip currents can be hard to spot. A calm, deep patch of water close to the shore with waves breaking to either side can often indicate a rip. Don't enter the ocean at the mouth of a stream or river, even if it looks calm. Discoloured, rippled or foamy water with debris can also mean a rip is present. Often the flattest area of the beach is the most dangerous.

Holiday Security Tips

Most burglaries are opportunist and happen when owners are away. Unfortunately, it is necessary to be especially careful at Christmas time, as homes and businesses are more often empty with many people out shopping, socialising or on holiday.

Here are a few simple precautions that could help to deter all but the most determined burglar -

- Update your alarm monitoring instructions so we know who, if anyone, should be on site and who to call if something happens (especially if you are overseas or uncontactable). Matrix alarm monitoring software can be configured to individual requirements including giving you remote access via an App including CCTV footage.
- If you have an onsite mailbox ensure that this is kept clear at all times so thieves can't tell if you are away. Matrix offers this service so please contact us if you would like this carried out.
- Schedule extra security patrols on your business to ensure doors and windows are locked and that any sign of attempted break-ins are reported so that these can be rectified or extra protection measures put in place until you return.

PROTECTED BY

MATRIX SECURITY

SECURITY CAMERAS OPERATING 24 HOURS - ALL IMAGES RECORDED

(09) 579 1567

- If possible don't advertise the fact that you are closed by putting a sign on the door etc. Keep thieves guessing!
- If you are a Matrix Security client, they can supply and install extra signage and window stickers to deter thieves – please ask us as these are free of charge for CPHBA members
- Get together with your neighbours and contribute funds to provide random patrol 'drive-bys' in your street by our experienced Security Officers. The more times our marked vehicles are seen, the greater chance thieves will find 'softer' targets.

As a special offer to CPHBA members, they have worked with the Association to provide these packages for both your home and business security –

- 1. Commercial Alarm monitoring – free connection to their Auckland based alarm monitoring centre plus the first month monitoring free (24 month contract), free daily reports, free app to allow for remote access - valued at $480
- 2. Residential Alarm monitoring – free connection plus 20% discount on their standard monitoring fee (36 month contract), free reports, free app to allow for remote access.
- 3. Commercial Patrols – sign up to a 12 month contract before Christmas and receive double the number of checks between 24 December and 6 January at no extra charge.

WESTGATE & HENDERSON

Mitre 10 MEGA Westgate rolled out the red carpet once again on Wednesday 15 November 2023 for the store's annual Ladies Night event.

Held in support of Harbour Hospice, the night allowed local women to take a tour of the store after hours, along with the support of our loyal suppliers sharing a wealth of knowledge, doing demonstrations, and running a range of fun interactive activities to get the crowd pumped.

On the night ladies also had the opportunity to swing some hammers in the building workshop (supported by the Mitre 10 MEGA Trade team and the Massey Community Men's Shed) where they could choose to build their own wooden toolbox or planter box and for a gold coin donation you could build a second or third! And many ladies did just that.

Food kept coming throughout the evening right up until the evening end, Columbus Cafe was set up to feed the masses and they were supported by our BBQ specialists Treager, Weber and BBQ WAR who cooked up a storm of delicious treats, drink stations were also set up throughout the store.

More FM were on-site for the evening providing an extremely popular popcorn making station with the most fun creative and delicious toppings.

The evening was rounded up with the draw of our top prizes thanks to the support of our amazing and generous suppliers, entry for the draw came with purchasing a ticket to the event and upon leaving everyone got to take home a goodie bag stuffed with fabulous items also provided by the suppliers.

The price for entry was $10 per person and the proceeds plus donations of over $5,800 was handed over to our very worthy recipients Harbour Hospice.

Mitre 10 MEGA Westgate would like to say thanks to everyone for coming along and supporting Ladies Night especially to the suppliers who without them could never have made the event a success AND hope to see you all again next year.

BNZ BUSINESS BREAKFAST

Plan for Success

Succession or exit planning and funding business growth were the topics of discussion at our latest Business Breakfast. Hosted by BNZ, the seminar featured expert insights from Matt Carnell, BNZ's Head of Business Growth and David Lilburne from Strategic Specialists Group.

The event was the first in a planned series aimed at helping businesses to achieve financial success.

Here's a quick summary of the knowledge shared.

Succession/Exit Planning

Succession planning involves developing internal talent, a management buyout, or a family member to take over the business. And exit planning is about preparing to exit either through the sale or merger of the company. Other exit options include liquidation or an initial public offering on the stock exchange.

Eight out of ten businesses don't sell, advised David. And he added that only 30% survive the transition from first to second generations in family-run businesses. The main reason for this is the failure to prepare a strategy.

According to David, purchasers and sellers have different perspectives. The seller is often emotionally invested in the company and has an innate understanding of how things work. However, the purchaser has no emotional connection. They are more objective and driven only by the numbers. David says that you need to put yourself in the shoes of potential buyers.

He also advised that succession planning is very personal. Every situation is unique. Typically, putting a succession plan in place takes much longer than an exit plan, so David's best advice is to start early.

Developing a successful exit or succession strategy involves several steps:

- 1. Know what success looks like - you want to ensure your business is as attractive as possible to potential buyers. However, you also want to balance that with your personal and financial goals.
- 2. Understand your starting point - determine what your business is worth using the EBITDA x Multiple = Value formula. EBITDA stands for earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation, and amortisation, and it expresses the business's profitability.
- 3. Make yourself desirable - Improve your saleability by strengthening the management team to reduce the reliance on the owner. Another possibility is investing in customer relationship tools to improve your customer capital. And take action to improve your cash flow.
- 4. Assemble an exit/ succession team - you'll need help to develop a successful strategy. You may require input from experts like a business adviser, accountant, insurance broker, lawyer, or bank.

The time to start planning your exit or succession is now. David from Strategic Services Group is offering a 30-minute preparation session to help you get started. So get in touch to arrange a session.

Funding Growth

The spotlight moved to funding business growth in the second part of the Business Breakfast seminar. BNZ's Head of Business Growth, Matt Carnell, took the floor and advised that access to capital is crucial to enable business growth.

Matt highlighted several of what he called 'room to grow' possibilities. These include investors, leasing rather than buying, and partnerships or outsourcing. Matt said not all business functions have to be performed in-house. Hiring part-time experts can sometimes be more cost-effective.

He then discussed how you can safely leverage your balance sheet to access alternative working capital funding options. Options here include the following:

- Debtors – invoice finance or cashflow plus
- Inventory and shipping – trade finance
- Plant and equipment – asset finance
- Strong counterparty – contracted receivables funding

Another possibility is leveraged and acquisition finance. Matt explained that this type of funding is based on a ratio of debt vs EBITDA. Although it's usually more expensive than loan-to-value lending, it recognises the business's true value rather than requiring a tangible equity position on the company balance sheet.

Matt concluded his presentation with a run-through of some rules of thumb banks take into account when making business finance decisions.

BNZ's advisers are available for more personalised advice for anyone wanting to explore business growth finance options.

More BNZ-sponsored Business Breakfast finance seminars are in the pipeline, so watch this space.

DAVIS WEST AUCKLAND Leading The Way in Funeral Care

Davis Funerals' light and bright premises on Central Park Drive does not fit the stereotype of a funeral home. Looking more like a Tuscan winery than the dingy, morbid funeral homes of old, Davis offers a refreshingly different experience.

'The Central Park Drive site is purpose-built and was opened in 1998,' explains Michael Powell, General Manager. 'We aim to offer families a more pleasant environment and experience,' he adds.

Davis Funerals has been in business for more than 85 years. Originally a family-owned company, it's now part of the Australian-based Propel Funeral Partners Group. Davis operates from five sites throughout the Auckland region. However, the Henderson branch is special.

Within the stunning main building, there's an on-site chapel complete with chandeliers and a beautiful private garden with a vineyard for a peaceful outdoor funeral. A large, welcoming reception lounge lets families get together after the service. Many memories of loved ones are shared over delicious refreshments.

'There have been significant cultural and religious shifts in recent years,' reports Michael. Furthermore, he says that today's modern society expects different things. 'Our challenge is to remain relevant,' he advises. The range of facilities and personalised services offered by Davis helps them to do just that.

Andrea Alston is the manager of the Henderson branch, which also includes an on-site crematorium. Andrea has enjoyed a varied career. She lived and worked overseas for ten years before returning to New Zealand and starting her own catering business.

A career change came after the death of her father. 'Through that experience, I realised how important the funeral industry is,' she says. She started work at Davis in March 2022 and has been Branch Manager since April.

'It's a good fit for me,' Andrea says. 'I love the idea of being organised, helping and supporting families through the experience of farewelling their loved ones,' she adds. According to Andrea, it's an honour to be able to help people at such a vulnerable and difficult time.

Michael has also enjoyed a diverse career. His background is in IT, and he spent more than 20 years in senior corporate roles overseas. Michael returned to New Zealand in 2016 and found himself drawn to the funeral industry. 'As a young man, one of my many secondary employment sources was a job working in a funeral home at night,' he explains. Returning to New Zealand, he was fortunate to be given a start in the industry working at Dil's Funeral Services on the North Shore before joining Davis in 2018. Michael took on the role of General Manager in January 2022.

Andrea and Michael believe their breadth of life experiences has helped them in their current roles. 'Having life experiences helps you understand and communicate with other people,' advises Andrea.

Michael adds, 'The value of people coming into the industry with other background experiences is that they bring inherent skills into the mix,' he says. According to Michael, things roll differently today; having that level of awareness and understanding that comes with life experience is essential.

Many people may think working in a funeral home is a challenging and depressing job. However, Michael and Andrea see things differently. 'I don't think of it as a sad job,' says Andrea. 'When I go home, especially after an incredibly tragic situation like the death of a child or young person, I get a lot of satisfaction knowing I've helped the family on their grief journey,' she reports. Andrea adds that there's nothing more rewarding than when a family says that the life of their loved one has been appropriately celebrated and honoured.

Michael advises that the work of Davis isn't just about funerals. 'Increasingly, we make efforts to get out into the community and help people understand what they should be doing now to make things easier when the time comes,' he says.

Andrea agrees and says that there is a culture of death denial in New Zealand. She believes it's a real shame that people don't feel comfortable talking about death and their wishes in advance. At Davis, the door is always open for those who want to come in and have a chat. 'You can sit down with us at any time and discuss arrangements like whether you would like a burial or cremation,' Andrea says. She adds that putting advance plans in place makes an upsetting situation much easier for families.

Michael's advice is to prepare early. He says that we invest time preparing for a variety of life changes but often neglect to think about our funerals. 'I encourage everyone to have an end-of-life plan,' he says.

Michael advises that estate planning and documenting the kind of funeral service you want takes enormous stress off loved ones. He also encourages people to make adequate financial preparations to reduce the burden on family members.

Moreover, Andrea says having essential documents in one place is a good idea. 'Where's mum's birth and marriage certificates? Not knowing those things can send a family spiralling and makes them feel inadequate,' she cautions.

Both Andrea and Michael balance their demanding jobs with lots of family time. Michael says that with any stressful job, it's vital to maintain social networks and keep your outside interests going. He's also recently taken on the role of Chairperson of CPHBA. It offers a different challenge, and he's excited to get his teeth into the role.

'The Henderson and Central Park district has a fabulous, diverse grouping of businesses,' declares Michael. He says the business association has made significant progress with the CCTV and lighting projects. 'The BID has put us in a great position to go out and get the pulse of the business community and ensure we continue to add value,' Michael advises.

UNLOCKING GROWTH: The Power of Email Marketing for Small Businesses

In the digital age, small businesses face unique challenges in marketing, often working with limited resources and budgets. However, one tool that has consistently proven effective is email marketing. Here's why email marketing is a game-changer for your small business.

- 1. Building Personal Connections: Email is a direct line to your customers. It's personal, efficient, and less intrusive than phone calls. Regular updates about your products, services, or company news keep your customers engaged and informed. This regular contact builds a stronger relationship with your audience.
- 2. Crafting Your Brand's Voice: Your brand is more than just your product or service; it's about the story and personality you convey. Email marketing allows you to shape this narrative in every message you send. By consistently communicating your brand's values and style, you create a unique identity that resonates with your audience. This recognition is key to standing out in a crowded market.
- 3. Showcasing Expertise: You position yourself as a leader in your field by sharing expert content, like insightful blog posts or engaging videos. This content entertains and informs your audience and builds trust and credibility. Providing value through your emails encourages customers to see your business as a go-to source for expertise in your industry.

- 4. Maximising Time and Budget: Email marketing is cost-effective. Unlike expensive traditional advertising methods (like TV or print ads), emails can reach a broad audience at a fraction of the cost. It's not just about saving money; it's about investing it wisely. With email marketing, you're putting your resources into a method that offers a significant return on investment, making it perfect for small businesses that must make every dollar count.
- 5. Establishing Trust and Credibility: Small businesses must work harder to build credibility in a world where big brands dominate. Regular, informative, and engaging emails help bridge this gap. They familiarise customers with your brand, which, in turn, builds trust. This trust is fundamental for small businesses aiming to compete with larger players.

Email marketing is a tool and a strategic asset for small businesses. It enables you to build relationships, craft a unique brand identity, establish expertise, save on marketing costs, and build credibility. These benefits are crucial for growth and stability in a competitive market. Email marketing is accessible and manageable, regardless of your technical skills or marketing experience. It's a straightforward, effective way to ensure your business survives and thrives.

TEETH WHITENING How Long Does It Last?

Teeth whitening has become very popular as people love the confidence boost that having a bright, white smile gives them. One of the questions our patients often ask us is: how long does teeth whitening last?

- In-clinic teeth whitening: investing in professional in-clinic teeth whitening gives results that should last for at least one year and up to three years. This system not only whitens teeth effectively, but also strengthens them – unlike many over-the-counter products that weaken teeth and make them more prone to staining.
- At-home whitening trays: used under the supervision of your dentist, these provide effective results that should last for a minimum of one year and often longer.
- Whitening pens: the effect of these pens is minimal, and the results do not last for more than a few weeks.

- Whitening strips: although popular, these run the very real risk of being harmful to your teeth as they contain peroxide. The results usually last for a few months.
- Whitening mouthwash: this is usually only effective when used to prolong the effects of other whitening treatments. Used on its own, it can take up to three months to see any results and these are typically very subtle and not long-lasting.
- Whitening toothpaste: this is generally only effective on light external stains. It can take as long as six weeks for results to become noticeable, and the effects last for around three to four months. Caution is recommended because many whitening toothpastes contain abrasives that are not designed for long-term use because they can thin tooth enamel.

DRESSED TO WIN: Fashion Tips for the Horse Races

The Summer Racing Season is upon us. Not only is the field alive with the hustle and bustle of all things horse racing, but it's also alive with the vibrant fashions of race goers. The races are one of New Zealand's last remaining social events with a strict dress code, depending on the area you're going to.

While this may vary a little depending on the course you're attending (check racecourse websites for more details), it's pretty safe to say that racewear can be described as big, bold and glamorous. It's more than day wear, it's day wear with class. With many years of tradition behind racewear fashion we've gathered up a few key things you should know before heading out.

As already mentioned, racewear is classy - so think semi formal. For guys it's collared shirts and dress pants at a minimum (leave the jeans at home). For the ladies it is beautiful dresses or a well-tailored pant suit.

Colour is a big thing to consider. On Derby race days it's tradition to wear black and white. You could go all black, all white, or a combo of the two. Nowadays, accents in neutral tones are an acceptable addition to the black and white ensembles. All other race days think bright, bold colours - the brighter the better for summer. Don't be afraid to push the boundaries when mixing and matching colours and patterns.

The last and most important part of your race day outfit is the accessories - with the most essential of these being headwear. A Hat, fascinator, headband or even a well tied scarf that compliments your outfit is a must. Add to this the right shoes, clutch bag and jewellery and you'll be set. Remember that a well-placed accessory that makes a statement is perfect for the races.

CHRISTMAS LILLIES

With Davis Funerals

Christmas lilies, scientifically known as Lilium longiflorum, are stunning flowers that have become synonymous with the holiday season. These elegant blooms are native to the Ryukyu Islands of southern Japan but have also found a special place in the hearts of New Zealanders.

Around the world called “Easter Lilies” but due to their bloom time in the Southern Hemisphere called “Christmas Lilies” here in New Zealand, they are adored for their beauty and fragrance. They are often used in festive floral arrangements, decorations, and even as gifts during the holiday season. The pure white colour of the lilies symbolizes purity, innocence, and the joyful spirit of Christmas.

One of the reasons why Christmas lilies thrive in New Zealand is the country’s favourable climate. The temperate climate, with mild winters and warm summers, provides the perfect conditions for these lilies to grow and flourish. The fertile soil and ample rainfall in many regions of New Zealand also contribute to their successful cultivation.

In addition to being a beloved holiday flower, Christmas lilies have also made their mark in New Zealand’s horticultural industry. The country has become a significant exporter of these beautiful blooms, with New Zealand-grown lilies finding their way to markets around the world. This not only showcases the country’s expertise in floriculture but also contributes to its economy.

New Zealanders embrace the festive season with enthusiasm, and the presence of Christmas lilies adds a touch of elegance and natural beauty to their celebrations. Whether it’s adorning homes, churches, or public spaces, these lilies create a festive atmosphere that is cherished by locals and visitors alike.

It’s worth mentioning that the love for Christmas lilies extends beyond the holiday season in New Zealand. Many gardeners and flower enthusiasts cultivate these lilies in their own backyard gardens, enjoying their exquisite blooms and enchanting fragrance throughout the year.

So, whether you’re strolling through a New Zealand Garden or enjoying a festive holiday display, keep an eye out for the graceful presence of Christmas lilies. Their delicate beauty and sweet scent are sure to captivate your senses and add a touch of magic to any occasion.

FUNERAL CARE

09 638 9026 | DAVISFUNERALS.CO.NZ

Caring for your cut Christmas Lilies:

Strip the leaves that will be under the level of the water in the vase, leaving at least four sets of leaves above the water line to provide nutrition to the lily buds that still need to open and to help draw water up into the stem to keep the flowers fresh.

Cut 1 to 2 inches from the bottom of each stem, cutting at a 45-degree angle with sharp, clean scissors, working with the stems under water. The diagonal cut provides more surface area on the cut end of the flower while cutting underwater prevents air bubbles from blocking water from being pulled up the stem to keep the flowers hydrated.

Place the flowers back in the vase and place the vase in cool area out of direct sun and drafts.

Clip the anthers from flowers with scissors as they open. Anthers are crescent-shaped structures covered with red-brown pollen that surround the stamen.

The pollen can stain tablecloths, furniture or clothing when you touch it when wet. Dry pollen can be brushed away. Remove leaves and flowers as they fade. Change the water every two days. Enjoy.

CRYPTOSPORIDIUM?

And What Is Giardia?

Nursery

Cryptosporidium and giardia are parasites found in the gut of infected people and animals. People infected with the parasites usually get diarrhoea. - Some people can get very sick from cryptosporidium or giardia.

How do you get cryptosporidium or giardia?

You get infected when you swallow the parasites, for example, by drinking contaminated water or touching your mouth with contaminated hands. People or animals who have cryptosporidium or giardia pass on the parasites in their faeces.

- The parasites can contaminate Soil, Food or Water, or surfaces such as toys, bathroom taps or doors, and nappy change tables.

The parasites can live in the environment for long periods, especially in lakes, rivers, streams and roof water. There is no way of telling by taste, sight or smell - if soil, food, water or a surface has cryptosporidium or giardia parasites.

ALL-NEW SUZUKI JIMNY 5-DOOR

Arriving In New Zealand, February 2024.

The first compact consumer four-wheel-drive vehicle, the Suzuki Jimny was designed 'out of the box' and came equipped with a ladder frame chassis, live axles up front and rear, and a dual range transfer case.

The Jimny was able to enter areas that the truck-like full-size conventional four-wheel-drives might not be able to handle, or not as successfully, because of its tiny size and low weight. Over the course of four generations, Suzuki's Jimny has evolved into an iconic four-wheel drive vehicle with much increased capability; in fact, the most recent model is quickly establishing itself as a competitive alternative to the venerable Land Rover Defender.

However, just as the Jeep was originally designed by American Bantam, a little-known small car manufacturer, rather than Willys, the Jimny was originally conceived by the Hope Motor Company. Their dreams were likely fulfilled when Suzuki requested to buy their Hopestar ON360 in order to produce something remarkably similar on a large scale.

To ensure that buyers would benefit from the tax advantages associated with owning these really small automobiles, Suzuki kept the car's dimensions within the Japanese 'Kei car' regulations. In order to accommodate three passengers - two in the front and one at the back - the spare tire had to be mounted in the back of the vehicle.

The ever-popular Jimny has evolved over time and has become better and more technologically advanced along with the times. The Jimny still retains its nimble chassis and versatility offroad while providing comfort and ease of driving on road and off road.

The little jimny has always been available in just a 2-door variant but that just got better. In January 2023, Suzuki released the long-wheelbase 5-door version of the Jimny, based on the Sierra version, using the emission compliant 1.5L K15B Engine.

The body-on-chassis design uses a ladder frame, 3-link rigid axle suspension with coil spring, and part-time four-wheel drive with low range transfer gear, marketed as ALLGRIP PRO. Transmission options are a 5-speed manual transmission and a 4-speed automatic.

Here's a legend made for even bigger legends! The all-new Suzuki Jimny 5-door is on its way to New Zealand, arriving February 2024.

3. Air Conditioning Bliss: Keep Your Cool

With the sun blazing, a functioning air conditioning system is non-negotiable. Have a professional check your AC to make sure it's blowing cool air efficiently. A cool and comfortable drive awaits!

STIHL SHOP KUMEU EXPANDS TO NEW WESTGATE STORE

Craig and Margaret Walker, owners of Stihl Shop Kumeu are going from strength to strength. Craig started working in the Kumeu store as a manager in 2011 and by 2015 an opportunity arose to take over the ownership. Both Craig and Margaret have had significant years of industry experience and have owned and/or managed previous businesses in the industry. In recent years, Craig and Margaret's daughter and son in law have come on board to assist with business development and expanding STIHL SHOP Kumeu's potential, so it is now truly a family owned and operated operation.

To stand apart from the big box retailers that are their main competition, Craig and Margaret focus on customer service and offering a premium, quality brand. Their focus is working; consistent sales growth has been recorded over the last few years despite hardships of Covid and floods in Kumeu. The Stihl battery powered tools are continuing to be good sellers and the store is progressing their Environmental Approach which covers not only the products they sell but all the way they run their business.

The team are award winners, with the store holding four Stihl Outstanding Marketing Achievement Awards. They utilize a range of local media outlets as well as social media and website. Not only that, the team is highly focused on local community and support the Kumeu Fire Brigade and other surrounding Brigades, Riverhead Bowling Club and local schools.

After running the Kumeu store successfully, the team have just opened their second store in Westgate on the weekend of the 11th November. The event was packed with heavily discounted equipment, prizes, give aways and fun games. The whole family turned out to lend a hand and after working 7 day weeks for the last three months, everyone is looking forward to having a weekend off.

BUSINESS HUB NOW AVAILABLE IN HELENSVILLE

North West Country Incorporated has opened a business hub in Helensville providing a large meeting space for members and the wider community. Identified as a much needed asset in our area, the business hub features a board room, large screen TV for presentations, full video conferencing facilities, free wifi and kitchen.

The format of the space is flexible whether you want to have a board meeting, host an AGM (seating available for 23), or a teaching workshop – you can move the space around to suit.

“There is nothing else like this in our community,” says Chair James Scott, “and we identified that we could fill this much needed gap by providing a formal space dedicated to meetings.”

The business hub will have additional facilities added over time such as confidential meeting booths, hot desks and be the home office for the North West Country manager and support staff.

The venue is located at 103c Mill Road, Helensville (above The Real Bread Project).

Booking is easy, simply head to www.northwestcountry.co.nz and click on Venue Hire.
